CAM ZINK'S

RED BULL RAMPAGE WINNING PROTOTYPE CORSAIR DOMINION

There is an American Proverb that goes like this, "A dose of adversity is often as needful as a dose of medicine". Cameron Zink is as American as they come, and this certainly holds true for him. Since he turned pro back in 2004 at the age of 18, he has had to undergo major surgery every single winter. Both ACL's and meniscus, wrist, tibia...just to name a few. This much pain and injury would cause lesser mortals to ease back, but in Cam's case it has only fuelled his fire. He has come a long way since those early days, signed to the Santa Cruz Syndicate as both a downhill racer and professional free rider. His injury down time gave him time to start his own grip company, Sensus, a one-man show. Cam is taking care of everything from product design, package design, marketing and even the shipping.

Now riding strong and injury free in 2010 with some added bionic cadaver tendons, he has shown the world his true potential and talent, something his close friends and long time supporters have always known about. Cam will never back down once he has his sights set on something, we caught a glimpse of this in his winning run at Crankworx earlier this year and he hammered that point home at the Red Bull Rampage with the "Won't-back-down" 360. Cam's style of riding, stomping big tricks on real mountain bikes in real mountain bike terrain with speed and grace is taking this sport of free riding in the right direction. Thanks Cam!
